“Recreating Relationships”

Healing for our Future – One-day workshop in Portland!

People all over the world have been asking what they can do to tap into the energies that have been awakened in them by the Conversations with God material. How they can rid themselves of self-sabotaging ways and reach their full potential. And what they can do to produce outward changes in themselves and in their world.

Now you can learn exactly what to do to make things happen in your relationships at the Recreating Relationships one day seminar in Portland.

Join Humanities Team leader Christian Pankhurst at this one day mini-retreat and find out how you can be a part of this transformation.

The Experience

---

Over time our emotional blocks, held and stored in our cell memories, have assisted in creating our life today. Through practical and experiential healing techniques using body, mind, emotions, and meditation, you can begin to tap deeply your unique resources in unblocking problems on all the levels of your being; creating unimaginable results and success.

- Get in touch with the source of your own healing power
- Learn how to put to work the teachings in Conversations with God in an intimate and safe gathering.
- Confront and learn how to eliminate core beliefs that have been preventing you from reaching your full potential.
- Find out how to consciously create and recreate the life of your dreams.
- Join other like-minded souls who are willing to spend time remembering their soul's purpose and creating real change in their lives.

Who should attend?

- Anyone who has read Conversations with God
- Anyone with a keen interest in the new spirituality.
- People fed up with oppressive religious practices.

“This young man, Christian Pankhurst knows how to articulate these messages as well as, if not better than I do. He is a profound source of clarity and understanding of the richness and depth of this material.”
